LOOKING FOR MISSING LEXINGTON PAINTER.

The city and county authorities have been asked by the Lexington police department to look out for James H. Green, twenty-nine, ex-army sergeant, house and sign painter by occupation, who has been missing from his home, 451 South Ashland avenue, Lexington, since July 18.

Green left home on Sunday morning, July 18, presumably to visit his sister, Mrs. Henry Johnson, on the Versailles pike, near Lexington, and has not been seen since he left the car. He is described as a ruddy complexion, is 5 feet, 6 inches in height, weighs about 150 pounds. When he left home he was attired in regulation uniform with cap and had a sharpshooter's medal pinned on his blouse.

RARE WASHINGTON PORTRAIT PAINTED ON MARBLE SLAB

A rare and comparatively unknown portrait of George Washington, painted in oils on a marble slab by Archibald Robertson, has been deposited with the New York Historical Society by Tarrant Putnam, a lineal descendant of the artist. The colors are said to be as bright as if it had just been completed. The painting shows Washington clad as a civilian in pale brownish coat with broad white ruffles down the front. A notation by the artist on the back indicates that the portrait was painted in Philadelphia in December, 1791. The artist had written that when the painting was made, Washington did not wear his false teeth.

GOVERNMENT AFTER SLACKERS.

LEXINGTON, KY., Aug. 2.—Linzy O. Thompson, special agent of the Department of Justice, said that because of his orders he was unable to make any statement concerning a dispatch from Washington that rewards amounting to $67,200 had been offered by the War Department for information that will lead to the arrest of 1,344 "slackers" in Kentucky. It is understood information concerning the campaign against those who failed to answer their country's call is to be given out only from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Rewards amounting to $67,200 will be paid by the War Department for information that will lead to the arrest of 1,344 "slackers" or draft dodgers in the State of Kentucky, who are charged by the department with failure to respond to the country's call. The local police departments of the various cities, the military intelligence division of the War Department, and the bureau of investigation of the War Department will take an active part in the dragnet which will virtually cover the State in the hunt for the draft deserters.

The list of the names of these 1,344 Kentucky draft deserters will be made public in a few weeks, it was announced Wednesday. The names are being carefully checked in an effort to make sure that these men failed to answer the draft call, and to avoid any possibility of error. The personnel divisions of the navy and marine corps are checking up against the names to see if any of the men whose names appear on the list served in those branches of the service.

As soon as this list has been checked the names will be given to the newspapers by the War Department for publication. The names of men in each community also will be posted in the local postoffice.

For months the War Department has been preparing a mammoth list of names of men who can be classed beyond question as actual draft deserters, and it is expected the total will be above 100,000 for the whole country. The entire nation, including every agency of the Federal, State and local authorities, will be called upon by the War Department to assist in the roundup.

"There is a remote possibility," said one official, "that a few of the men whose names appear on the slacker list may have served in some branch of the service without knowing it. If such is the case, he will be given an opportunity to appear at the War Department or before the local representatives of the department and show that he did serve, in which event he will be given a clean record. But where he is unable to show that he served his country when called he will be subject to a military court martial and a severe penalty will be imposed."

OH MY STOMACH

"I had stomach trouble so badly that nothing I ate would digest as it should," said Sadie E. Hamilton, Portland, Me., as she began a remarkable story of the relief she has secured from Argo-Phosphate, the new reconstructive stomach tonic and system purifier.

"Everything that I ate would lie in my stomach like a lump," she explained. "Gas would form and I would suffer distress all the time. I got so I could hardly keep anything down. Trying to get relief, I had my stomach pumped out, but even this did not help me as I continued just as bad."

"I kept hearing so much about Argo-Phosphate that I thought maybe it might help me and I decided to try it. I have taken two bottles and to my surprise I am already feeling fine. I can eat anything and I am not troubled at all. I am completely rid of my old stomach trouble that I had for three years. I have not felt so well for years and I am certainly glad to endorse Argo-Phosphate because I want others to be helped by this wonderful medicine."

"The spirit of wanting to help others is what makes suffering men and women give these splendid endorsements of Argo-Phosphate," said a local druggist.

Peculiar Fish.

Very common in the mud flats at the mouth of rivers in tropical Africa, Asia and northwest Australia are the mud-skippers, or jumping gobies, which leap about quickly, using their tails and the strong base of their fore fins as a sort of double-hopping instrument. Sometimes they rest on a stone with their tails in the water, as they are able to breathe by their tail fin as well as by their gills! Sometimes they sit perched high and dry on the roots of the mangrove trees, looking round and round with their strangely protruded, mobile eyes, which are close together on the top of the head.

Anne Boleyn's Clock.

The weights of a clock at Windsor castle bear on them "The Most Happy" and the clock is further inscribed with the motto, "Dieu et mon droit," and the letters "H. A." entwined in true-lovers' knots. This exquisitely-made clock—only four inches deep and ten inches high—was a gift from Henry VIII to Anne Boleyn on her wedding day. It was in the possession of Horace Walpole, and Queen Victoria paid $551 for it when the contents of Strawberry Hill were sold in 1842.

CIRCUIT JUDGE REHA ACQUITTED OF CHARGE

RUSSELLVILLE, KY., Aug. 2.—Charges against Circuit Judge John S. Rhea of using the United States mail to send an obscene and anonymous letter to Mrs. A. M. Herndon, associate editor of the Russellville Messenger, were dismissed by United States Commissioner George S. Hardy.

Handwriting experts testified they could see no similarity in the handwriting of Judge Rhea and that contained in the letter. Mrs. Herndon, whose newspaper in 1918, editorially, charged Judge Rhea with sending the letter following a political feud, restated her charge against the sixty-six-year-old judge, and asserted he was responsible for the talk against her newspaper. Judge Rhea on the stand asserted that he was not in Russellville when the letter was received by Mrs. Herndon and that he had absolutely no connection with starting the talk against the Messenger.

Commissioner Hardy in dismissing the charge said he had been a lifelong friend of Judge Rhea and could not believe he wrote or mailed the letter.

SUIT TO FIGHT MIRRORS ON TRUCKS.

Suit was filed in the Franklin Circuit Court, at Frankfort, Friday, to test the constitutionality of the act of 1920 requiring mirrors near the driver's seat on all motor trucks.

Attorneys Morris and Jones, of Frankfort, brought the action in the name of Albert Terstegge, president of the Louisville Automobile Club, and Lyman Graham, of Frankfort, to enjoin the Tax Commission from letting a contract for $27,000 worth of mirrors on the ground that the act is unconstitutional on technical defects, that it is in effect double taxation, and that, inasmuch as the law does not require truck owners to buy from the State, the contract would be a waste of the taxpayers' money. Many automobile drivers declare a mirror is not an aid to the driver, but a frequent cause of confusion in regard to traffic in the rear.

The suit was agreed upon with the Tax Commission to settle the question in advance of the operation of the law, which becomes effective January 1.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford car can well be called the "people's car," because there are more than 3,000,000 of them in daily operation. That is about four to one of the nearest follower in the motor car industry. This would not be so if the Ford car had not for sixteen years proven its superiority in service, in durability, and in the low cost for operation and maintenance; this would not be so if the Ford car was not so easy to understand, so simple in construction that anybody and everybody can safely drive it.
